COUNTY SENIORS TO COMPETE FOR SCHOLARSHIP

23 Are Entered In Examinations At High School Saturday.

GIVES STUDENT $100 EACH YEAR

Twenty-three seniors of every high school in Adams county, with the exception of York Springs, will take examinations at the Gettysburg high school, Saturday, to qualify for the annual scholarship to be awarded by the state of Pennsylvania. The examinations will begin at 8:30 o'clock and continue until noon and from 1 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The applicants must take examinations in English and American history, with a third subject to be selected by each applicant.

The state scholarship is worth $100 a year for four years to the winner. Any of Pennsylvania's colleges and universities may be attended by the winner.

In the neighborhood of 80 scholarships, each an allowance of $100 annually on tuition at any institution in the state, are awarded by the state. Each county in the state receives at least one scholarship and Philadelphia, Allegheny and Luzerne counties receive more.

Saturday morning the applicants will be examined in English and history, while in the afternoon they will be examined in one subject, which the applicant will select from the following: Mathematics, biology, physics, chemistry, Latin, French, German and Spanish.

The questions for the examination have been prepared by the professional bureau of the state department of education and are in the hands of W. Raymond Shank, Adams county superintendent of schools. The seals will not be broken until the applicants arrive for the examinations.

WOMEN LOSE IN WORK SCHEMES

Home Training Might Be Fraud State Warns Housewives.

A striking illustration of the loss of money by women of Pennsylvania through fraudulent "home work" schemes has just been uncovered by the department of labor and industry, according to a report made to Governor Pinchot by Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of labor and industry.

An investigation made by the bureau of women and children of the department developed an advertisement which offered a training course in sign painting. In subsequent correspondence the concern making the offer claimed that anyone completing this course would be supplied with an abundance of work which might be done at home. The woman visited by the bureau investigator had already paid the concern $36 for her training course. She had been assured by the concern that if she was not satisfied at the completion of the course her money would be refunded.

The conditions imposed made it impossible for the woman to complete the "course." The scheme apparently is to prescribe rules that prevent a "student" from finishing the course so that the concern may not be required to furnish the work or return the money.

Persons answering advertisements of this sort are, almost without exception, those who can ill afford to lose the money involved in such transactions, Dr. Northrup said.

The department intends to make every effort to drive "home work" crooks out of Pennsylvania, it was said.

James F. Woodward Dies In Harrisburg

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP).—James F. Woodward, secretary of internal affairs, died suddenly at his home here today.

He had been ill about two weeks, but his condition was not thought serious. He was 63 years old.

At the spring primary in 1930 he was defeated for the republican nomination by Philip Dewey.

Will Rogers says:

To the Editor of The Times:
Fort Worth, Texas, April 30.—It's just getting so there is nowhere in this country you want to go between two real towns where they haven't got a good reliable air line. This bird flying us into Fort Worth now, from Atlanta, Herr Kindred, is older than Rockefeller and has had twelve thousand hours and no accidents. A man couldn't walk that far without getting hurt.

Have seen more plowed ground from Washington to Texas. Bad most of it for cotton. They have not sold last year's crop yet. I wish these people would raise something they could eat, when they couldn't sell it. Flew right over that new Texas oil field that has made oil so cheap that it's cheaper to strike a dry hole.

Yours,
Will Rogers.

Body Of Woman Is Found In Old Canal At Capital

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP).—The body of a woman about 35 years old was found today in an abandoned canal which parallels the Susquehanna trail about seven miles north of the city.

State police believe the woman had been carried from an automobile and placed at the spot where it was found. The body was clad only in a dress and was without shoes or stockings.

The only clue the police obtained to help them establish the woman's identity was a wedding ring. Engraved on the inside of the ring was the inscription "F. C. W. to E. M. F." She also wore a diamond engagement ring and diamond earrings said to be worth $275.

BATTER DOORS TO RAID HOTEL

20 Arrested In York County Roadhouse By State Police.

Battering in doors with axes at the Hill Crest Inn, a roadhouse along the York pike, across the Yellow Breeches creek from New Cumberland, state police Wednesday night entered the place and arrested Margaret Kline, alleged proprietress, and nineteen men and women patrons.

A detail of nine troopers under Sergeant Dahlstrom, of the York station of the state police, arrived at the inn. Some of them went to the front door, and others went to the side door.

Sergeant Dahlstrom rang the front door bell and waited. The door was not opened. At both doors troopers raised axes and hewed their way in.

As they entered a negro orchestra was playing a fox trot. Two couples were dancing. Other men and women, some of them only slightly more than 21 years of age, were seated at tables on which state police say there were glasses of liquor.

Seeing that they were surrounded by the police, the patrons made no effort to leave.

Police say they found three half-bottles of beer and several bottles containing whisky, and a slot machine.

Crime Down In State Report Of Major Adams Shows

The net returns on the operation of criminals like those from legitimate business apparently have been affected by the general business depression, Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the state police said today.

Reports compiled from the state police records show that during the first quarter of the present year the value of stolen property recovered by the force was $52,051 as compared with $61,679 in the same period last year. That neither crime nor police activity has decreased, Major Adams cited 4190 arrests in the first quarter of the present year as compared with 3627 in 1930.

During the period in 1931 the arrests included 59 for homicide, 122 for robbery, and 1132 for burglary and larceny as compared with 68 for homicide, 90 for robbery and 914 for burglary and larceny in a comparable period of last year.

March Accident Fatal For Dillsburg Boy Wednesday

Injuries suffered in an automobile accident on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road, at White Hill, near Harrisburg, on March 25, resulted in the death of Merle Kingsboro, 15, of near Dillsburg, at the Harrisburg hospital at 1:10 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Kingsboro was riding in an automobile driven by D. H. Ritter, of near Camp Hill, which crashed into the rear of a truck which backed on the highway. The driver of the truck was Levi Snelbaker, of near Dover, York county. A bar of steel from the truck punctured Kingsboro's thigh, fracturing the bone.

An interne on an ambulance from the Harrisburg hospital cut the bar to free Kingsboro.

Dr. Howard E. Milliken, Dauphin county coroner, said an inquest in the death of Kingsboro would be held. Snelbaker was arrested by the state highway patrol at the scene of the accident and was held in $500 bail for Cumberland county court by Justice of the Peace Hamilton, Lemoyne, at a hearing March 30 on a charge of drunken driving.

LITTLE CHANGE IN AREA OF JAP BEETLE SPREAD

Road Patrol At Work West Of Gettysburg; Few New Areas Are Added.

FIGHT ON BORER ALSO BEGINS

Preliminary plans for the summer campaign against the Japanese beetle, the European corn borer and other devastating insects found in the commonwealth were announced today by R. H. Bell, director, bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania department of agriculture.

The extension in the Japanese beetle quarantined area was the smallest during 1930 of any recent year. Sixteen counties in Lycoming and Clinton counties were added to the lightly infested area, while eight townships in Cumberland, Perry and Union counties, which were in the lightly infested area during the past year, were placed in the generally infested area.

In the "lightly infested area," restrictions are placed on the movement of nursery and ornamental plants, sand (except for construction purposes), soil, earth, compost and manure but not on the movement of farm products. In the generally infested area restriction will be continued practically the same as in the past.

According to present plans, the road patrols will begin work generally about June 15, and will be stationed at the edge of the generally infested area. In most cases, these stations will be at approximately the same points as a year ago. A road patrol is now at work west of Gettysburg.

Scouting for new beetle infestations will be done as in the past, largely by the federal government. It is expected also that the federal office will continue the policy of liberating parasites at all outlying points where the beetle infestation is sufficient to support the parasites. While traps will be used more generally in scouting work to find new infestations, they are not recommended as an effective control measure except when used on a community-wide basis, Mr. Bell said.

Minor Changes

New regulations for the control of the European corn borer make only minor changes in the requirements as enforced during 1930. The important provision in the quarantine for the area as a whole is the restriction placed on the movement of corn, broom corn, sorghums and sudan grass which cannot be moved from points within the area to points outside. The movement of grass, however, are no longer restricted.

Reorganized Highway System Puts Adams County In District Eight

J. C. McCarrell Continues To Head Division Including This And Neighboring Counties; Goes Into Effect May 15, According To Highway Secretary.

A reorganization of the state highway department effective May 15 will place Adams county in district No. 8 and division No. 4. The other counties in the district with Adams county will be Cumberland, Franklin and York counties, while in the division, district 7, including Dauphin, Lebanon, Juniata, Mifflin, Lancaster and Perry counties, will be joined with number eight.

The reorganization of the highway department to form 12 districts instead of eight divisions as at present was announced today by Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways. The plan, which was approved by Governor Pinchot, anticipates the taking over of 20,000 miles of township roads by the state.

The twelve districts will be grouped in pairs to form six divisions with a division engineer in charge of each division.

New Districts

New districts are:

District 1—Crawford, Erie, Forest, Mercer, Venango and Warren counties.

District 2—Cameron, Clinton, Elk, Clearfield, Potter and McKean counties.

District 3—Columbia, Lycoming, Montour, Northumberland, Snyder, Sullivan, Tioga and Union counties.

District 4—Bradford, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Wyoming, Susquehanna, Pike and Wayne counties.

District 5—Berks, Carbon, Lehigh, Monroe, Northampton, and Schuylkill counties.

District 6—Bucks, Delaware, Chester and Montgomery counties.

District 7—Dauphin, Lebanon, Juniata, Mifflin, Lancaster and Perry counties.

Causes Inconvenience To Students Living In Nearby Cities.

Because nearby cities where their homes are located are on daylight saving time, students at Gettysburg college are preparing a petition which they will present to the Gettysburg borough council asking that Gettysburg officially adopt daylight saving time this year.

The proposal for daylight saving time when presented to the Chamber of Commerce at its last meeting was turned down. The project has never been placed before the borough council.

Acting on a survey of local fraternities, the student council at Gettysburg college voted in favor of starting a movement to place the college alone on daylight saving time and presented the proposal to the college faculty several days ago.

While not turning the project down, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, told the student council unless the borough also had daylight saving time, it would create a great confusion to have the school working on one time and the borough on another, and suggested that they petition the town for the change in time before bringing it before the council.

The matter will be brought before the council by the students at its May meeting next week.

It was explained by college proponents of daylight saving time that in going to and from their homes in Harrisburg, Lancaster, York and Philadelphia, where daylight saving time is in effect, they find it inconvenient in meeting schedules because of the hour's difference.

Gets Picture Of Raven In Its Nest

Robert E. Leiter, photographer for the game commission, after several futile attempts has succeeded in obtaining motion pictures of a young raven in its nest.

To secure the pictures Leiter was lowered sixty feet over an almost perpendicular cliff near McElhattan, Clinton county. Two years ago, Dr. George M. Sutton, Arctic explorer and naturalist and then an attaché of the commission, was severely injured while attempting the feat at the same location.

Although the one young raven photographed in the nest was almost as large as a crow, an egg beside it had not been hatched.

The raven is almost extinct in Pennsylvania and their nests even when located are usually inaccessible to man.

CHANGED DATE MADE ISSUE IN DIVORCE CASE

Judge Rules Master Cannot Allow Any Change In First Libel.

WANTS INQUIRY INTO COLLISION

In allowing Mrs. Anna H. (Snyder) Long, of Littlestown, libellant in a divorce action against her husband, Ellsworth T. Long, of Bruceville, Maryland, to amend her libel, based on the latter's alleged infidelity, Judge Donald P. McPherson, in a opinion handed down in court, Wednesday afternoon, stated that he would ask the master who takes testimony again to make inquiry whether or not there has been any collusion between the husband and wife.

J. L. Williams, Gettysburg attorney-at-law, the original master in the case, although doubtful of his right in the matter, allowed an amendment made to the original libel so as to change the date upon which the husband's alleged illicit relations with another woman occurred.

No Authority

In its opinion, the court stated that the master had no authority to allow the amendment to the libel. Without the amendment, the court pointed out, the cause of divorce alleged was not substantiated and the divorce recommended by the master could not be allowed.

At the hearing before Mr. Williams, John P. Butt, attorney for Mrs. Long, made the motion to amend the libel by striking out the date April 30, 1925, as the time when Long's alleged infidelity occurred, and inserting the date October 30, 1930. Mr. Butt explaining that the mistake was one of his own in computing the time of the alleged occurrence and the birth of a child to defendant's paramour on July 31, 1928.

Alleged Indignities

The original libel also was based on alleged indignities upon the person of Mrs. Long, but the master's report shows there is no evidence to support this allegation and he recommends that this ground be not allowed.

Testimony was produced at the master's hearing that Long's alleged paramour had him arrested in Carroll county, Maryland, on a statutory offense after the birth of her child.

MAROONS DOWN FROSH BY 9-4

Mr. St. Mary's Yearlings Too Weak For Fast Local Nine.

Unleashing a strong hitting attack for the first time this season, the Gettysburg high school baseball nine won their second consecutive game on Wednesday afternoon when they downed the Mr. St. Mary's freshman team at Emmitsburg, 9-4.

Ten timely hits were garnished off of O'Rourke and his successor, O'Farrell. Anthony, Raffensperger and Pierce each collected a pair of hits, while J. Pitzer, Rebert, Jones and R. Pitzer poled out single.

Bob Pitzer displayed the best form he has shown this year. Thirteen hitters were retired via the strike-out route and but five hits were made off his delivery. Except for a brief uprising in the ninth, and R. Pitzer poled out single drives.

Flying Start

The Maroons got off to a flying start by coning a run. Pierce beat out his bunt along third base. D. Pitzer promptly sacrificed, Holahan to Binkert. Anthony then singled to left, scoring Pierce.

Gettysburg tagged another run in the second. J. Pitzer shot a hard single to right and went to second when Kennedy booted the ball around the outfield. When McGonigle threw wild to first on Rebert's boulder, J. Pitzer streaked to the plate.

The collegians got two tainted runs in the third to tie the count. Holahan walked and O'Rourke sacrificed. R. Pitzer to D. Pitzer. Donovan fanned. Eckenrode got a fluke triple when Raffensperger over-ran his hit. Pierce then spilled Boogers' fly hit to allow Eckenrode to score.

A trio of runs were added to the Maroon score in the fifth. Rebert singled and Jones walked. R. Pitzer bounced to O'Rourke to advance both runners. Pierce whiffed by D. Pitzer drew a base on balls to fill the bases. Anthony came through with a single to left, scoring Rebert. Raffensperger then walloped a single to right sending Jones and D. Pitzer home. The inning ended when Knox expired. Eckenrode to Binkert.

Gets Home Run

Eckenrode gave his team a run in the sixth when he rammed a long drive between left and center that rolled over the deep embankment in left for a home run.

The Maroons came right back in the seventh and scored two more runs on Pierce's single, walks to D. Pitzer, Raffensperger and Knox, and J. Pitzer's fly to center.

Jones' single, R. Pitzer's double followed by Pierce's long hoist to Coviello in left accounted for another local run in the eighth.

Singles by O'Farrell and Eckenrode, coupled with Dixon's error on a ground ball in right, gave St. Mary's its last run in the eighth.

The final run was made in the ninth. Raffensperger led off with a single and ran to second when O'Farrell threw wild attempting to catch him off first. Raffensperger went to third when Eckenrode booted Dixon's roller. J. Pitzer then skied to center, sending Raffensperger over.

The Martinmen will try for their third straight on Saturday when they meet Hanover high at Hanover.

Reach Agreement On Virginia Road

New York, April 30 (AP).—Dow, James & company, said Wednesday the Pennsylvania railroad and the Van Sweringen interests have agreed to share control of the Virginia railway under the projected four-party eastern railway merger plan.

Disposition of the Virginia railway was one of the undecided matters that was left to arbitration under the four-party agreement, but it is understood that the two roads agreed voluntarily to a satisfactory arrangement. The Pennsylvania, the Van Sweringen lines, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central are to be the hubs of the four major eastern trunk-line systems under the plan announced by President Hoover several months ago.

Shippensburg Man Captain Of Big Ship

Washington, April 30 (AP).—Another native Pennsylvanian has been assigned as a battleship skipper. Captain Benjamin Dutton, born at Shippensburg, is the latest product of Pennsylvania to command a man-of-war, being ordered to captain the Wyoming, the flagship of the training squadron's scouting force. His present home is at Annapolis.

Captain Dutton entered the naval academy in 1901 and returned there as a member of the faculty during the world war. Later he served on the warships New Mexico and Pueblo, and in 1920 was assigned to the staff which brought the German battleship Ostfriesland allotted to the United States by the Versailles treaty, to this country for bombing experiments.

Returning to the naval academy in 1923, he served there three years until assigned to command the No. 10, naval survey ship.

Washington, April 30 (AP).—One cannot imagine even Horatio Alger in his romances of young placing a boy hero in the White House in the presence of a president and a king. Yet the boy hero is there, the guest of the President and Mrs. Hoover. And he saw the king and queen of Siam.

The boy is Bryan Untiedt. He is the lad who several weeks ago made every possible sacrifice to save his companions from death when the school bus in which they were riding was stalled in a Colorado blizzard. The nation proclaimed him a hero and the president invited him to the White House. He wanted to meet that kind of a boy.

Bryan arrived Wednesday morning. He came unannounced and unaccompanied. A White House automobile was awaiting him at union station. A doorman at the White House conducted him through the great north doors, which usually open only to ambassadors and members of the cabinet.

As he stood in the reception hall, his cap in one hand and a small camera in the other, the boy—he is 13 years old—was shy and nervous. But in a few moments he was at ease in the blue room, and it is said he tucked away a sizable breakfast.

The president was in his office, but Mrs. Hoover received the boy and with Mrs. Darr Stark McMullin, a White House guest, led him through the old mansion from the basement to the loft. At an appropriate time he was taken to the executive office.

Bryan is a frank lad. He walked into the executive office and said, "Hello, Mr. President."

"Hello, Bryan," said the president, "how are you and how are your folks?" The president and the boy talked for ten minutes. Then Bryan asked to see the dogs. He was taken to the kennels, where there are a variety of dogs, including a comical-looking Norwegian elk hound recently received.

Shortly after Mrs. McMullin, who is looking after the boy, led him back to the White House the king and queen of Siam arrived.

Negro Porter Goes Amuck In Pullman

Utica, N. Y., April 30 (AP).—Rebuked by a sleeping car conductor for entering the berth of a woman passenger on a New York Central train, J. E. Smith, of New York, negro porter, Wednesday attacked and injured the conductor, the train conductor and two passengers. Smith, who had used a club and axe, surrendered to state troopers at Thenandara, sixty miles out of Utica.

The injured included Edward English, Saranac Lake, Pullman conductor; James Mortman, Utica, train conductor; E. G. Feather, of Hudson street, Brooklyn, and A. L. Canzin, of West street, Brooklyn, passengers.

English had been severely cut on the head and shoulders. The others were not seriously hurt.

The train was enroute from Utica to Montreal. Smith, resisting apprehension, backed through the train and had reached the private car of C. E. Broadhead, superintendent of the Adirondack division, before Thenandara was reached. Troopers, with gas bombs, boarded the train there and the negro dropped his axe and club when he saw the uniforms.

41 DIE IN WRECK OF CAIRO TRAIN

Express Catches Afire From Hot Box; Death Reigns Supreme.

Cairo, Egypt, April 30 (AP).—Forty-one persons were killed Wednesday night when the Cairo-Alexandria express caught fire from a hot box as the train sped along near the little station of Benha.

The wreck is believed to have been the greatest rail catastrophe in Egyptian history. Officials of the Egyptian state railway were continuing through the night to search the right-of-way for the bodies of passengers who jumped from the three blazing coaches.

Flames Spread Quickly

The hot box developed beneath one of the third-class coaches and it was not noticed until the flames burst upward spreading quickly along the train. A signalman at Benha, first to see the flames, flagged the train down, but the general alarm had spread before a stop could be made and the frantic passengers leaped from windows in a wild scramble to escape.

The coaches were packed with holiday crowds enroute to Cairo from Alexandria. The three cheap coaches burned like tinder and they were not fitted with means of signalling the situation to the engineer.

Many Leap to Death

By the time the train was stopped and burning bodies, and bodies were the coaches were heaped with dead straw back along the track to the point at which the flames first appeared. Many of those who leaped were killed outright, others writhed in agony from complicated fractures caused by the leap from the speeding train.

Atlantic City, April 30 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, addressing the United States Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, counseled the nation's business leaders against wage-cutting as a solution of their problems.

Instead, he said, the most prosperous periods in history have been those "coincident with high wages and shorter hours."

Mr. Lamont told the chamber the government had done all possible; that the problems were so vast no single effort could solve them; that business itself, as the American individualistic tradition dictates, should get together "to sit on the bulge" of enthusiasm that makes over-production during boisterous periods of prosperity.

The men under arrest are: Milton Bloom, about 38, of near Beaver Creek; Roger Bloom, 18, son of the former; Albert Smith, 19, of Hagerstown, and Lester Shipley, 19, Hagerstown. All of them except Bloom have made alleged signed confessions to the three robberies. County Investigator Martin L. THURMONT APPROVES $6000 BOND ISSUE

Thurmont—Thurmont voters, at the annual election Monday, stamped their approval on the proposed bond issue of $6,000 for extensive improvements to the town hall, embodying complete renovation of the building. The bill carried by a vote of 80 to 45. At the same time, Mayor Frank L. Cady and two town commissioners, unopposed, were re-elected for the ensuing year.

Out of a registered vote of 375, approximately 127 ballots were cast at the election, which took place in the town hall from 3 to 6 o'clock. Since there was no opposition to the incumbent town officials, interest centered on the bond issue and the vote was fairly heavy. Opposition to the proposed improvement was pronounced and the bill was not considered safe until late in the day.

And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbade him, because he followeth not with us.

And Jesus said unto him, Forbid him not: for he that is not against us is for us.

And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem.

And sent messengers before his face; and they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him.

And they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem.

And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?

But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of.

For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village.

SHIP FLYING

By Mary Graham Bonner

"My dears," began the Little Black Clock, "we really must hurry, you know!"

"You didn't say 'hurry, hurry, hurry,'" said Peggy, "and you always do that when you are turning the time ahead."

"Maybe you're not turning it 'Yes, I am," the Clock exclaimed. "I see now that you are," John added, as a very fine plane landed near by. "That's for us, isn't it?" he asked.

The Little Black Clock nodded. Then they jumped into the plane. "We're going ship calling," he said.

Now they flew out over the ocean and in the distance they could see a very large ocean liner. They flew along and then landed upon a landing deck of the vessel.

The Clock led them all about the ship and John was mostly interested in the fine machinery and instruments used in running the ship.

One of the things that interested him most was a machine which could scatter material to drive away

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O. O. McIntyre

New York, April 30.—When the old Waldorf gave up the ghost and the curb lines of drooping cabbies were forced to seek new evening stands, the metropolitan press heaved a collective sigh for the passing of the horse and gig. They had some way of the bay-windowed brown stone fronts.

Only a small group huddled northward near the plaza entrance to Central Park. But their future seemed as shabby as the fading green of their liveried cots. Then cry, honeyed with unctious: "Kerridge, sir!" had lost its appeal. The mad motor age exacted the final toll.

To those of us for whom the two-wheeled hansom cab with its driver perched high in the rear was a pleasant recollection, the passing was a sentimental wrench. Fifth avenue did not seem quite the same. To many they offered the only distinguishing difference between New York and any other city.

So it is nice to chronicle that for some reason—the market crash is as good as any—the hansom and the Victoria have received a new spurt of popularity. As a means of leisurely metropolitan transportation the comeback is noticeable on all the smart thoroughfares.

The ancient drivers have emperored noses and patent leather plug hats have taken new heart. Horses turned out to pasture are back in their stalls and carried to a new sleekness. Harness and other trappings are freshly oiled and red wheels spin among the limousines.

People are not only using barouches, hansom and Victoria for sentimental swings around the park and on Riverside Drive, but to and from the theatre and opera. Debutantes pull up in front of restaurants in them. The hansom, by the way, was named for J. A. Hansom, English inventor.

—OO—
When I came to New York it was the berries to sit on the veranda of the old Savoy at dinner or lunch and languidly gaze out on the passing panorama—the bobbing sun parasols, the clomp of lacquered hooves, clinking silver chains. No one since has attained the imperious hauteur of those immobile grooms and footmen. Afterward one strolled southward and through the curtained windows of the Vanderbilts, the Goulds, the Goetzes and the Twombles were glittering chandeliers sparkling in the crackle of open fires. As J. Brooks Atkinson says in one of his elegant essays: It was a vivid city. Things hummed.

—OO—
Today the city does not hum. It splits the air with deafening crashes. As the leading slammer in a door-slaming family I find my efforts entirely futile. In fits of anger it is my wont to go through the house practising my art. But in all the noisy hub-bub it is completely lost. It is like dropping blotters on a pile of feathers.

—OO—
In fact a piano tuner in the next room no longer baffles. It used to be when he got hold of a note and tried to ping it into harmony I had to push away the typewriter and take the air. But today the Bounding McGuires can practise on my desk and work, such as it is, goes on as usual.

—OO—
It is said Alexander Woolcott gave up dramatic reviewing because, after many years of it, he could no longer sit through a show. He has not lost a liking for the theatre and attends regularly, but in a professional capacity he found it something else again.

Producers looking for harlequins to brighten a bleak world should catch the turns of Jack McLallen and Burns an Allen, somewhere in vaudeville. McLallen, with a dead panned "stooge" and a gorgeously voiced lady called Sarah, had Henry Sell and me doubled up like a pair of jack-knives. Miss Allen, with the urbane Mr. Burns prodding her on, is a glorious stage dumbbell. And if someone doesn't star Phil Baker in his own play shortly I may sell my bond and do it myself. He has the most pronounced following of any single comedian. Deservedly, too.

In the ebony black hallway of a bachelor's pent house is a snow-white stuffed owl with electrically lighted eyes—gleaming red—the only light. Portieres into his living room are dried rattle-snake skins. Cocktail glasses are skull shaped.

fog around the liner.

Of course, as the captain explained, they could not do away with fog but this chemical scattered it.

And as they talked a fog came up and the captain showed John how wonderful a thing this fog-prevention was, for there would be fog all around and then it would be quite clear while in the distance the fog was very heavy.

We can't run into anything this way, for all the boats carry this fog-prevention instrument and material," the captain said.

So they watched the fog being pushed out of the way as the ship sailed along. That, John thought, was one of the finest accomplishments the future had produced.

SEES ORIGIN OF INDIANS BACK IN ASIA MINOR

Similarity In Customs Leads Italian To Advance Belief.

By Charles E. Harner

Bogota Columbia (AP)—Another suggested solution of the ancient problem of the lost tribes of Israel and the mystery of the population of the western hemisphere is seen by L. Battista Venturello, of Turin, Italy, who has emerged from a year's stay in the northern Colombian jungles.

He brought back word, and pictures to prove it, that the Magdachurch: Sunday School at 1 p. m.; church service at 2 p. m. The Rev. D. W. Bickler is the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Trostle, Littlestown, visited Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Halter, Monday.

Pauline Strine, Gettysburg, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. H. Strine, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sentz and children, near Brunshtown, visited Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd, Sunday.

Dora Schneider is spending some time with relatives in Westminster.

lena department, one of the largest states of the Republic of Columbia, contains an Indian tribe, the Aruacos, whose customs and dress are strikingly similar to those of Asia Minor.

Squalid Villages

In squalid villages of adobe-walled, straw-thatched houses, perched high on the snow-capped Sierra Nevada range, these Indians live a life which Signor Venturello claims parallels that of Turkey and Palestine in many aspects.

The men are fierce fighters and excellent hunters. The women wear veils as in Turkey, although he induced some to pose for him unveiled. The men's hats the remarkable similarity to the traditional Turkish fez and the ceremonial Jewish headgear, he says.

The Aruacos love bright colors and their clothes, fashioned as are those of Asia Minor, are in varied hues. The men wear their hair long and carefully combed.

The tribe is without written records, but its legends go back into an antiquity which makes it apparent that the tribe has clung to the same territory for centuries, Venturello said.

He found the Indians throughout his journeys far from hospitable until he had loaded the chieftains down with presents. Then he was suffered to remain among them and, at times, even regarded as a friend. His camera was always regarded with suspicion except by the powerful warrior tribe of Goagiro Indians, who fear nothing, not even cameras.

The explorer found among the Goagiras the finest specimens of men he has ever seen. They are bronze-skinned and powerfully muscled. The habitual dress is a loin cloth, a hat and sandals, well suited to the hot plains of Magdalena where they live.

One of the most dangerous tribes Venturello encountered was that of the Motilones. These are small, crafty jungle Indians who do their killing with blow pipes or bows and arrows.

After another year of investigations, especially of the legends of the Aruacos, Venturello hopes, to write a book in which he will present a hypothesis of origin from Asia Minor.

'MAN OF GRIT' IS LEADING FIGURE

Gave Four Sons To His Country In World Conflict.

By T. T. Topping

Paris (AP)—Paul Doumer, leading candidate to succeed President Gaston Doumergue, is France's "man of grit."

When four of Doumer's sons were killed at short intervals in the world war, a wave of sympathy went up throughout France for the statesman.

But the courageous Doumer clamped tight his teeth and his entire attitude proclaimed that he would rather be known as "Pater Fortissimus" than "Pater Dolorosus."

Today he never mentions the sons he gave for his country and his friends and colleagues respect his sorrow.

Suffered Keenly

One of the strongest arguments for advancing Doumer to the post of "first citizen" when the national assembly meets on May 13, is that, coming from a man who has suffered so keenly from the war, words of peace toward late enemies or potential adversaries would carry a lot of weight in international circles.

Doumer was born in Aurillac, March 22, 1857.

Like many leading politicians of France today he started as a newspaperman. He veered to politics as private secretary of Charles Floquet, president of the chamber, in 1887.

Elected Deputy

He was elected a deputy for the first time in 1888 as a representative of the department of the Aisne. Without interruption his mandate as a deputy was renewed until January, 1912, when he was chosen senator for Corsica, a post he has held since.

Meanwhile he had been minister of finance in the Leon Bourgeois cabinet from 1895 to 1896. This was his first portfolio and it came after he had spent only seven years in parliament. Thus, except for Poincaré, he is one of the youngest ministers ever chosen in the Third Republic.

In Indo-China

From the ministry of finance he went to Indo-China as governor general. He remained in Hanoi from 1896 until 1902.

The years 1905 and 1906 saw him president of the chamber of deputies. In his leisure hours he wrote a book, "L'Indochine," in 1905. In it he showed a deep knowledge of oriental problems.

In 1906 he published "The Book of My Sons," a story about the sons whom he was to lose in the world war.

This is the second time that Doumer has been a candidate for the presidency. In 1903 he was the opponent of Fallières and received 371 votes as against 449 for the latter. Doumer has been president of the French senate since January, 1927.

Nursery Rimes Changed To Suit Philippine Isles

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Bobby Shafto has gone to sea, silver buckles on his knee.

"He'll come back and marry me, pretty Bobby Shafto."

But in the Philippines pretty Bobby of nursery rhyme fame goes to sea, not in a wash tub, but in a little "banca," or native dug-out canoe, which is more familiar to Filipino children than an American wash-tub.

New Rhymes
And so it is with many other Mother Goose rhymes taught to the Filipino school children of the primary grades. In these distant islands the rhymes, thousands of miles from home, have been changed to fit their new environment.

Thus Little Boy Blue sleeps, not under a haystack, but a rice stack, and the Little Red Hen finds a grain of rice instead of a grain of wheat.

Jack, who nimbly jumps over the candlestick, yields to the Spanish influence and becomes Juan, a name as common among Filipinos as Jack is among Americans.

Rice Cake Boy
The Ginger Bread Boy has become a Rice Cake Boy, and the mulberry bush in "here we go around the mulberry bush" has become a mango tree.

Other rhymes have retained their words, but the gestures that go with them have changed.

"This is the way we scrub the floor" is accompanied by a forward and backward motion of the feet and legs rather than the arm, for here the scrubber, barefoot, stands on two halves of coconut shells and works them back and forth with his feet and legs.

Business Marshals Forces Fight on Economic Trends Making Depression

Washington (AP)—Business generals of the world again are arraying their forces for the everlasting fight with those economic trends that make both depressions and prosperity.

The United States division—the Chamber of Commerce of the United States—meets at Atlantic City April 28 to May 1.

The world army—the International Chamber of Commerce—comes to Washington a few days later, from May 4 to 9.

Business, sure that it can solve its own problems without too much governmental supervision, will seek way to keep men working, to keep factories steadily operating, to adjust the production of things to the desire and need of the people for them.

Executives of some 1800 business organizations will attend the nineteenth annual meeting of the American chamber in the first concerted approach to the problems of the business depression since President Hoover held his White House conference with industry and labor. After these men have discussed their problems with a view to definite action, some of them in cooperation with their colleagues from 46 countries will seek similar results in Washington in the first congress of the International Chamber in the United States. Some 400 foreign financiers and business executives are expected to attend.

President Hoover heads the list of speakers at the International Meeting. Others are Owen D. Young and Sir Arthur Balfour, English steel manufacturer.

Many European economists look to America, as the leading industrial nation, to herald the coming of better times.

Americans count on an increase in the purchasing power of Europe and America to help bring business stability.

It seems likely that the problem of war debts, most of which are owed to the United States, also will be discussed.

World's Fastest Engine Quits Rails

York, England (AP)—The Great Western railway's famous locomotive "City of Truro," described as the fastest engine in the world, has been retired to the railway museum here.

The City of Truro once made 102.3 miles an hour while speeding to Plymouth in competition for the American mails in 1904. But the directors thought the public would be frightened at mere mention of such a speed and the record was not made public until 1922.

In 27 years the engine traveled more than 1,000,000 miles.

MARCONI LOOKS FOR NEW SECRET

Hopes To Learn What Will Unlock Power Of Ultra Short Waves.

By Edward Stanley

London (AP)—Guglielmo Marconi, the Italian scientist who has unlocked many of radio's secrets, is fashioning another key which he hopes will fit the lock to still more mysteries—those of ultra-short waves.

Whether the key will be suitable, and if so what it will reveal, Marconi, smiling, doesn't predict. But he says:

"Nothing is impossible."

One gains the impression that Marconi feels radio may be on the threshold of another great era of development. But that isn't what he says.

At the moment, in the light of what is known about them, he sees only limited possibilities for ultra-short waves.

"They seem to have some of the properties of light waves," he explains. "They cannot pass through obstructions, such as buildings, but they can pass through fog, smoke, darkness."

May Guide Ships In Fog

"Thus they may be useful in guiding ships and trains—tasks of that nature. In a fog a ship could put a short-wave belt about itself warning all other ships that come within that belt."

"The great obstacle is that they can be sent only for comparatively short distances. They do not seem practicable for commercial use over long distances. Certainly not from here to America for example."

He sees some hope for the future in that some way may be found to "bend" them.

Like Radio's Early Days

"We seem to be in something of the same situation we were in early wireless," he says.

"The first wireless telegraphy—about 35 years ago—could only operate over about the same distances. Many people thought that would be its limit."

Incidentally Marconi used short waves in some of his early work, sending about two miles.

Just how far he has gotten with his experiments Marconi doesn't say. He has a laboratory in London, but most of his work is done in his laboratory in Italy.

"We are just working ahead quietly," he says.

Marconi is quiet, soft-voiced and patient. He is of medium build, wears blue and is of fair complexion.

Some time in the fall he plans to visit the United States again, partly to see his friends there and partly to see what's doing in radio."

LEADERS FROWN ON GANDHI PLAN

Urge Civil Disobedience Campaign For The Philippines.

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of civil disobedience is watched with keen interest in this country, where some leaders for years have advocated "immediate, complete and absolute independence" from the United States.

There have been scattered suggestions that the Filipinos would do well to follow in the footsteps of the Indian nationalists, but the only effort in this direction by any popular leader met with a cold reception.

Heads Minority
Senator Juan Sumulong, head of the demerata, or minority party, came out for Philippine civil disobedience, and was promptly jeered by the press and by the leaders of the nationalist or majority party.

There are a number of reasons for the failure of the Filipinos to be more than passively interested in the Indian situation. American-Philippine relations as a whole are not bad. Cooperation between the governor general and the legislative heads prevails.

From here it looks as though the advocates of independence are becoming increasingly strong in congress, and Filipino leaders may feel that any untoward action now would hurt rather than help their cause.

Quit Their Jobs
Senator Sumulong, in suggesting civil disobedience for the Philippines, proposed that all Filipinos in the government, from highest to lowest, quit their jobs. It is small wonder that he was ridiculed, for practically all of the sacrifice would be made by members of the majority party.

However, there are at least some among the Filipino masses who are for emulating Gandhi. This is shown by letters printed from time to time by the newspapers.

One such letter, printed recently by the Philippines Herald, one of the leading nationalist journals, said:

"Civil disobedience is the only way by which a subject nation like ours can cope with a stronger one like the United States. . . .

"Are we afraid to endure privations and hardships? Did not our fathers suffer and die for our liberty? We are not going to fight with arms, but with iron will, the will to save our country from the claw of colonial greed, and to give our children a country of which they can be proud. . . .

Responsible leaders, however, remain content to view the trend in India as an interesting phase of the nationalist movement, meanwhile declining to follow suit.

SEE HOW WHITE YOUR SHIRTS ARE, TOM, AND THEY WEREN'T SCRUBBED NOR BOILED

Tells Tom how new soap saves work and wear

"REMEMBER how quickly your shirts used to wear out? That's because they were scrubbed so hard. It wore me out, too! Now I don't scrub or boil—yet I get whiter washes than ever! My colored things come bright as new. For I've changed to Rinso. It's a marvelous soap!"

Rich, safe suds

Thousands write to tell us how marvelous Rinso is. Cup for cup, it gives twice as much suds as light weight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Soapy, lathering suds that soak out dirt!

Great in washers, too! The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso. It's safe for the finest cottons and linens. Nothing like it in rich suds for dishwashing. Get the BIG package.

OLD AMBITION MAY BE REALIZED

For a long time Ruth Nichols, daughter of Rye, N. Y., has been ambitious to make a solo flight across the ocean and now her plans are developing toward that end. Plan Use of Airplanes to Spot Liquor Stills from Air

Washington (AP).—Flying dry agents are to be the government's recruits in the war on liquor traffic.

A nearly new three-place airplane, captured in Texas from rum runners and a pair of pilot-prohibition officers will form the nucleus of an aviation department for the bureau of prohibition.

Liquor stills operating in the open are to be spotted from the plane and locations reported to ground crews who will do the raiding, according to plans formed by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

"The use of an airplane, as I see it," Woodcock said, "will be just an ordinary use of an obviously practicable method."

"We expect to get the plane free—as we got all the automobiles we have used up to this year—if the court in Texas will forfeit it to us; otherwise we will buy one."

"On our staff there are a number of qualified pilots. Two of these will be selected for permanent aviation duty."

"We expect the areas which now

Wooded Areas

The aviation section is expected to be complete within two months. Areas particularly to be patrolled, Woodcock said, will be islands in the Mississippi river, portions of North Carolina and Florida, and wooded sections of southern Maryland.

Spotting stills from the air has been employed by the bureau previously with airplanes rented by the hour.

CONEY ISLAND
READY AGAIN

Peggy Joyce, Now Platinum
Blonde, Goes Into Vaudeville.

By Richard Massock

New York—Gabble of a padabout:
Coney Island's shaking the sand out of its hair and getting set for the summer—merry-go-rounds newly painted, hot dog stands ditto.
There's something sadly Pagliacci about Clownland waiting in its new mask for the people to come and laugh.

Plaster devils advertise a new drink. An already tired chap with a cockney accent shouts, "Come along, folks, here is a devilish good drink," over and over again. That's going to be awfully monotonous by July Fourth.

Star tableau in the Coney wax-works museum this spring—the Vivian Gordon murder.

Joyclana

Peggy Joyce in vaudeville—a platinum blonde now—plays the part of a gold-digger with a British accent.
And her picture in a Madison avenue shop window—"Peggy Hopkins Joyce wears our pajamas."

We caught her at a matinee and overheard a woman in the row behind say, "I wonder what she really is like."

Well, one night a young beau about town wanted to make an impression on his new honey.

"I have a date to take Peggy Joyce to the Mayfair dance," he said, "but I'll call up and break it just to be with you."

He telephoned to Peggy, with the other girl listening in, and said:

"Peggy, I'm awfully sorry, but I just found out I forgot to bring my formal kit back from Florida, so that means we can't go to the Mayfair tonight. I hate to have to break the date. Some other time maybe—"

"Oh, that's all right," interrupted Peggy. "I don't especially care about going to the Mayfair again.
Come on over and we'll go to a movie."

Does that help answer your question, madam?

William J. Punzell, wig-maker to the Metropolitan opera, is dead, struck down by a motor car. But his son, Walter, and daughter-in-law, Madeleine, will carry on the family art.

And that's an important occupation. Punzell was devoted to it.
He studied beads on the subway and in other public spots, storing ideas for operatic characterizations.
In his studio he wove the wigs on wooden blocks, each the shape and size of a star's head.

Punzell had been with the Met for 28 years. He came from Germany and was by trade a barber.
He created wigs and beards for all the singers and personally arranged them before each performance. Scotti in particular would never go on without the hair-dresser's final approval.

One night Punzell was fussing with Caruso's makeup. On the dressing table lay the great tenor's rich pay-check.

"If I had that," Punzell said, "I could take my family to Europe."
"How much do you need?" asked Caruso.

"If I had half of it, I could do it,"
said the wig-maker.

"Here's $500," said Caruso, handing him the money.

And so the Punzell family went to Europe.

HARRY VIENER'S

AMUSEMENTS

At The Majestic

America's most famous author of boys' stories is responsible for "Father's Son" which will be the first National attraction at the Majestic theatre Friday. This gorgeous evening of screen entertainment was made from "Boy of Mine," by Booth Tarkington.
Everybody wonders how Tark-ington manages to enter the thought-world of the young as he does. When asked about it, he replied, "By recalling my own boy-hood."

A writer who knows Mr. Tark-ington well has said of him, "Mr.
Tarkington's interpretation of childhood has a weird quality and one has an uncanny feeling his studies in boy psychology call for some sort of pathological explanation."
